

SPOTLIGHT

Photos: Vigil in Newtown condemns racism, violence

53 min ago

Hundreds took part in a vigil Monday in Newtown to condemn racism and the weekend's violence in Charlottesville, Virginia. Participants started the corner of State and Center streets where they listened to speakers, then walked to the Newtown Friends Meetinghouse. The event was sponsored by Rise Up Doylestown, The Peace Center of Langhorne and Show Up for Racial Justice.

Photos by William Thomas Cain

1 of 5

William Thomas Cain

Buy Photo

LisaBeth Weber leads the crowd in song during an vigil against racism after the weekend's events in Charlottesville, Virginia, on Monday, August 14, 2017 in Newtown. After some speeches, the group walked to Newtown Friends Meetinghouse.